Who we are

■ Our Mission

Connecting companies and the people behind them –
for a strong Germany in a strong Europe

■ Our Values

The social market economy is our guiding principle.
Shaping it is our obligation.

■ Our Vision

Our aim is to strengthen the competitiveness of companies and in doing so, secure the future of Germany's Mittelstand.

Markus Jerger
Executive Chairman of the Federal Management Board

■ Strong for Germany

The BVMW successfully represents the interests of the German Mittelstand in politics – because we bundle the expertise and experience of small and medium-sized businesses across the board. We successfully lobby at all political levels. We connect entrepreneurs with the right people and provide our members with tangible price advantages. Together, we strengthen the competitiveness of German Mittelstand.

■ Driving Force

The German Mittelstand. BVMW is represented nationwide. We are a central point of contact for policymakers in every region. We consolidate the expertise and experience of the business community and are an active part of our pluralistic society. Together with our members, we develop a basis for political decision-making. We communicate facts, demands and positions relating to the economy to politics, society, administration as well as media and the public.

■ Networker

Benefit from our numerous national and international events. At both a regional and European level, we inform and advise our member companies and the member associations that make up the SME Alliance (Mittelstandsallianz) and initiate an intensive exchange of opinions and experiences. Our 300+ representatives have around 800,000 business contacts yearly and organize over 2,000 events a year.

■ Shaper

Our members represent the entire spectrum of industries. Together, we form the backbone of the German economy. The BVMW is the German Mittelstand.

■ A Strong Voice

BVMW is the largest voluntarily organized cross-industry interest grouping of German Mittelstand. As part of the Mittelstand Alliance, we represent the common economic, social and societal interests of around 30 industry associations with more than 900,000 members. This strengthens our political clout. Together, we give German Mittelstand a clear profile. In doing so, we maintain the freedom to act economically while simultaneously securing social harmony.

Be part of it – increase your success in Germany's largest decision-maker network!

We are committed to

■ Education

In Germany, education and training are fundamental to prosperity. We are committed to a turnaround in education policy. In addition to comprehensive schools, we need more competition and higher quality.

■ Digitalization

Recognize potential, exploit opportunities. Nationwide broadband expansion is essential if Germany is not to lose touch with the digital world. Policymakers must make this a reality as soon as possible.

■ Energy and raw materials turnaround

Support alternative raw material extraction and reward self-consumption instead of penalizing it. Strengthen the circular economy and increase the use of secondary raw materials. Reward environmental awareness through taxation and comply with emission limits.

■ Europe

Strengthen identity and focus on the community of values – further enhancing competitiveness for German companies.

■ Skilled workers

The coalition parties tackled the Skilled Labour Immigration Act demanded by BVMW. This is an important first step in addressing the shortage of skilled workers in Mittelstand companies.

■ Financing

The financing of small and medium-sized companies by banks and credit institutions is an ongoing issue. The EU Commission, Council and European Parliament agreed on the SME clause proposed by BVMW. The risk weighting for loans to SMEs was lowered, while at the same time, the retail limit was raised from one to 1.5 million euros.

■ Health

Reward prevention, ensure safety in healthcare. No sales threshold for reimbursement of innovative drugs.

■ Innovation and Support Programmes

Introduce tax incentives for research. Bolster projects and establish an open discourse on new research approaches.

■ Law

Labour law, social law, IT law/data protection, business law and deregulation. For 80 percent of our members, reducing bureaucracy is politics' most important task. According to estimates by the Federal Statistical Office, this costs over 50 billion euros per year.

■ Location

Improve infrastructure and expand charging structure for electromobility. The focus is on social security, finance, climate, raw materials/resources, the labour market, consumer protection and value creation.

We are committed to

■ Taxes

We demand: relieve and simplify. In addition, a withholding tax exemption should be introduced for investments in research-intensive companies.

■ Corporate security

Digitalization, which is penetrating all areas of the company, must be organized quickly and as smoothly as possible, while at the same time guaranteeing security. This requires intelligent corporate security concepts. Topics are: Operational security, data protection, occupational health and safety, IT security, cyber security and general information security.

■ Events and web impulses

In our series of events and web impulses, we provide impetus, address issues, and promote direct dialogue between our members and high-ranking political representatives at the federal, state, and EU levels. The 2,000+ events and web impulses reach members directly and impart knowledge and solutions to strengthen competitiveness.

■ Competition

Reduce bureaucracy, promote start-up culture and self-employment, and strengthen entrepreneurial and upward-mobility culture for location-based value creation.

The results of this work are published in a continuously updated brochure – subdivided according to the individual policy fields – and can be read on BVMW's homepage.

Scientific Advisory Council

The Scientific Advisory Council of the BVMW advises the association's federal management on all economic and socio-political challenges. Its members are renowned representatives of the scientific community who contribute their expertise to the German Mittelstand. A particular expression of this work is the position paper "Aus den multiplen Krisen in die strukturelle Transformation – eine neue Angebotspolitik für die deutsche und europäische Wirtschaft" (From Multiple Crises to Structural Transformation - A New Supply Policy for the German and European Economy). In this paper, the Council outlines the most important steps required to ensure that change can be considered from the perspective from where value creation is made: the Mittelstand.

Health Advisory Council

The Health Advisory Council was established to advise the Chairman of the Federal Executive Board on all relevant health policy issues. The Advisory Board members are renowned experts in their respective disciplines and enjoy a high reputation in the healthcare industry. The Health Advisory Council is unique in its composition, both in the association landscape and beyond. The meetings address the pressing problems within the German healthcare system, including the funding gap in the statutory health insurance funds, the outdated hospital structure and the sluggish pace of digitalization. To keep the liquidity of the statutory health insurance funds stable in the future and to ensure comprehensive medical care for the population, the Advisory Council on Health Care is developing solutions to initiate comprehensive structural reforms.

Strong Women – strong Mittelstand

The German Mittelstand. BVMW has tasked itself with making the successful work of female entrepreneurs and women in management positions in small and medium-sized enterprises more visible. We want to network them more closely and create new offerings for women in business. That is why the BVMW has launched the initiative “Starke Frauen – starker Mittelstand” (Strong women – strong Mittelstand). In doing so, we offer female entrepreneurs in small and medium-sized businesses a platform to draw attention to their diverse activities at events throughout Germany. In addition, female entrepreneurs have the opportunity to tell their stories, which are presented on our association’s website.

Parliamentary breakfasts and lunchtime talks

Through the Mittelstand Alliance, BVMW oversees regular formats in which we invite representatives of our partner associations to a parliamentary breakfast or lunch with members of the German Bundestag. As part of the informal dialogues, we are able to bring political concerns and, above all, expert knowledge to the attention of stakeholders from the respective specialist committees who are particularly committed to German Mittelstand. A patron from the Bundestag is appointed for these meetings, who moderates the table discussions and answers questions from the invited members of parliament and partner associations.

In the talks, we address a wide range of topics, such as taxes and finance, new mobility, energy security and climate protection, new work and education, as well as start-up funding and business succession.

First-hand Information

Digitalization is one of the key transformation challenges facing German Mittelstand. Modern infrastructures in the form of nationwide broadband connectivity are the key and prerequisite for the German economy's performance. Germany also has a lot of catching up to do in terms of digitizing its administration. With its cooperation partners Telekom and Microsoft, BVMW invites member companies to exclusive events, such as the summer evening at Microsoft's Berlin office or Digital X in Cologne. Leading Mittelstand entrepreneurs thus have the opportunity to obtain first-hand information on digitalization.

This alliance is unique in the German association landscape and achieves a new level of clout. Together, we voice the most pressing concerns of small and medium-sized businesses.

The concentrated expertise of the diverse, industry-specific and cross-industry partner associations not only provides constructive criticism but also always offers forward-looking solutions – for direct legislative implementation and a strong Mittelstand in Germany. In regular meetings, the alliance partners can enter into a direct exchange with ministries, members of the government and high-ranking politicians.

Funding Projects IT Security

The German Mittelstand. BVMW is a project partner in two funded projects focusing on IT security. Through this work, we are contributing to promoting IT security skills and raising the level of IT security among Mittelstand companies.

The “mIT Standard sicher” standard funding project is developing a standard for IT security consulting. This enables companies with up to 50 employees to select the right consulting service provider based on transparent quality criteria and to receive qualified consulting that

- guarantees a high level of protection after implementation
- takes into account the financial and human resources and needs of Mittelstand companies, and
- enables companies to develop decision-making competence themselves.

“mIT Standard sicher” has 400,000 euros in funding.

The “mIT Sicherheit ausbilden” project offers workshops for company training officers throughout Germany. Qualified trainers show how they can use interactive methods and an online learning platform to pass on IT security skills to trainees in their day-to-day work.

Both projects are funded by the German Federal Ministry of Economics and Climate Protection.

KliMaWirtschaft

The German Mittelstand. BVMW leads the KliMaWirtschaft (climate-economy) project, which is funded by the German Federal Ministry of Economics and Climate Protection. The project provides small and medium-sized enterprises with free support in introducing climate management. Participating companies learn in successive workshops how to balance their operational carbon emissions in the long term and how to reduce them measurably. This is also accompanied by defining their individual climate protection targets and implementing climate protection measures within the company.

The KliMaWirtschaft project has 950,000 euros in funding. By the end of 2024 the project will have implemented:

- support for more than 200 companies in implementing climate protection measures
- the development of an online climate protection toolbox for finding suitable climate protection measures
- preparation of information in web impulses, workshops, checklists and guides

We offer guidelines on responsible supply chain management or climate neutrality as well as position papers in labour and human rights, environmental protection and corruption prevention.
